To Whom it May Concern,

Lake County Public Health Agency (LCPHA) approves the use of State Food Safety for both the Food Handler and the Food Protection Manager food safety trainings. Please note that the Food Protection Manager certification meets the requirements set forth in 2-102.12 and 2-102.20 of the Colorado Retail Food Establishment Rules and Regulations. The mission of LCPHA is to promote healthy choices, prevent disease and protect the community through ongoing assessment, education, and resource sharing while engaging in a holistic approach. The accessibility of food safety trainings online and in multiple languages can help retail food establishments be successful in complying with the Food Code and providing a safe food experience for customers.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Behr, RDN
