

Food Managers Can Now Take Certification Exams from Home!

With online proctoring, food managers can take their certification exam from home or work with a proctor who monitors the exam with a webcam and microphone.

Is Online Proctoring Approved?

Online proctoring is approved by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI). All certificates obtained from StateFoodSafety via online proctoring are valid just as if obtained through traditional proctoring.

How Does Online Proctoring Work?

Online proctoring is made possible because of our partnership with ProctorU. ProctorU has proctored more than two million online exams worldwide.

ProctorU proctors supervise exams through a webcam and microphone, allowing examinees to take their exam from a location of their choice.

Food managers can either schedule their exam session in advance or start their session as soon as they're ready.

Is Online Proctoring Secure?

In many ways, online proctoring is more secure than traditional proctoring services.

- Proctor to examinees ratio never exceeds 1:6 (classroom ratio can be 1:35)
- Identity is verified using photo ID at beginning of session
- Proctor must approve testing environment, examinee must show entire area by moving the webcam or using a mirror
- Examinee's screen is shared with proctor during entire exam
- Examinee's basic computer setup is shared with proctor (such as secondary monitors or other displays)
- Proctors are trained to look for commonly repeated actions that indicate cheating

Requirements

The testing environment must be private, well lit, and free of any testing aids or distractions like talking or noise.

The proctor will inspect the workspace and surroundings using a computer webcam and a reflective surface.

The location must have reliable internet.*

A webcam and microphone are required.**

The exam must be taken on a computer or laptop, not a phone or tablet.

Examinee must show a valid photo ID.

*StateFoodSafety offers a system requirements check.

**A webcam with microphone can be purchased at Amazon for about ten dollars.
